Concept Note

Human right is based on the assumption that human beings are born equal in dignity and rights. With the progression of democratic ideals, the awareness on human rights is increasing day by day and echoing in the uttermost part of the planet. Simultaneously human rights issues are also vehemently escalating in all the spheres of the life of mankind. Human rights are instilled in ancient thought and philosophical concepts. It covers vast range of needs that are indispensable for the human existence. Every national and global legal system ensures justice, equity and rule of law to protect human dignity. Despite the concrete state schemes, an open forum for discussion and discourses is required under this caption as long as man to be resorted to the state of innocence. The questions surrounding the emancipation of women in the realm of economy, academy and family are still unresolved. The status of women has now become critical to the human right-based approaches. Child rights, the problems of diaspora communities, chronic uncertainty in the status of LGBT, deception of the consumers and denial of the rights of the pedestrian assume greater significance today. Hence, there is a frequent need for analysis of rights based on the achievements and challenges strongly felt. The present conference proposes to shed light on the current and pragmatic issues in the arena of various issues in human rights in different perspectives.
